

Recognizing Our Nurses

IN MEMORY OF J. PATRICK BARNES

L+M Hospital is kicking off a new awards program to honor the outstanding work of our nurses.

L+M Hospital will participate this spring in the “The DAISY Award,” a nurse recognition program sponsored by an international foundation that seeks to recognize the “super-human” work of RNs as they provide extraordinary, compassionate and skillful care to their patients and families.

While L+M Hospital has long participated and continues to participate in a regional nurses award program known as the Nightingale Awards,

DAISY Awards are slightly different, honoring select nurses throughout the year, with nominations coming from peers and, in a notable difference, also from any member of the community.

A DAISY Award is based less on overall career service and more on specific examples of compassionate care, organizers say. A patient or family member, for example, could nominate a nurse who made a special difference to that family’s hospital experience.

At L+M, RNs Sarah Grasso and Harriet Stiles are taking the lead in organizing the awards program.

“We’re excited to take part in the DAISY Awards as it gives L+M and our community a new way to recognize the compassionate care of our nurses, which is often delivered behind the scenes and without much fanfare,” Grasso said. “It’s a great new way to pay tribute to the traditions of our profession that continue to flourish at L+M.”

Anyone wishing to nominate a nurse for this new award can do so by writing a short description of why a particular nurse made a difference in a patient’s care or to a family’s hospital experience. Official nomination forms will be available at multiple locations within the hospital, and the nomination form is available for download on L+M’s website, lmhospital.org.

DAISY Award information will also be shared on L+M’s Facebook page.

Completed nominations can be placed in DAISY boxes that will be conveniently located in the hospital.

Nominations can be mailed to:

Anyone with questions about the awards program can contact Sarah Grasso BS, RN- CNN, at sgrasso@lmhosp.org.

A five-member committee will read and vote on the nominations. The names of the nominees will remain anonymous to the judging committee to ensure objectivity in selecting a winner. L+M expects to present DAISY Awards several times per year, but the first award is scheduled to be announced and presented during Nurses Week in May.

The awards are overseen by The DAISY Foundation, a California-based organization established in memory of a 33-year-old man named J. Patrick Barnes. Barnes died of an auto-immune disease, but not before receiving extraordinary care from his nursing staff. That care deeply touched his family and led to the establishment of the foundation, with the acronym “DAISY” standing for Diseases Attacking the Immune System.

Since 1999, the DAISY Foundation has grown to include more than 2,000 healthcare organizations in the United States and 15 other countries.
